Déjà Vu (dā zhȧ vǘ) —

Fr., lit., already seen Psychol.
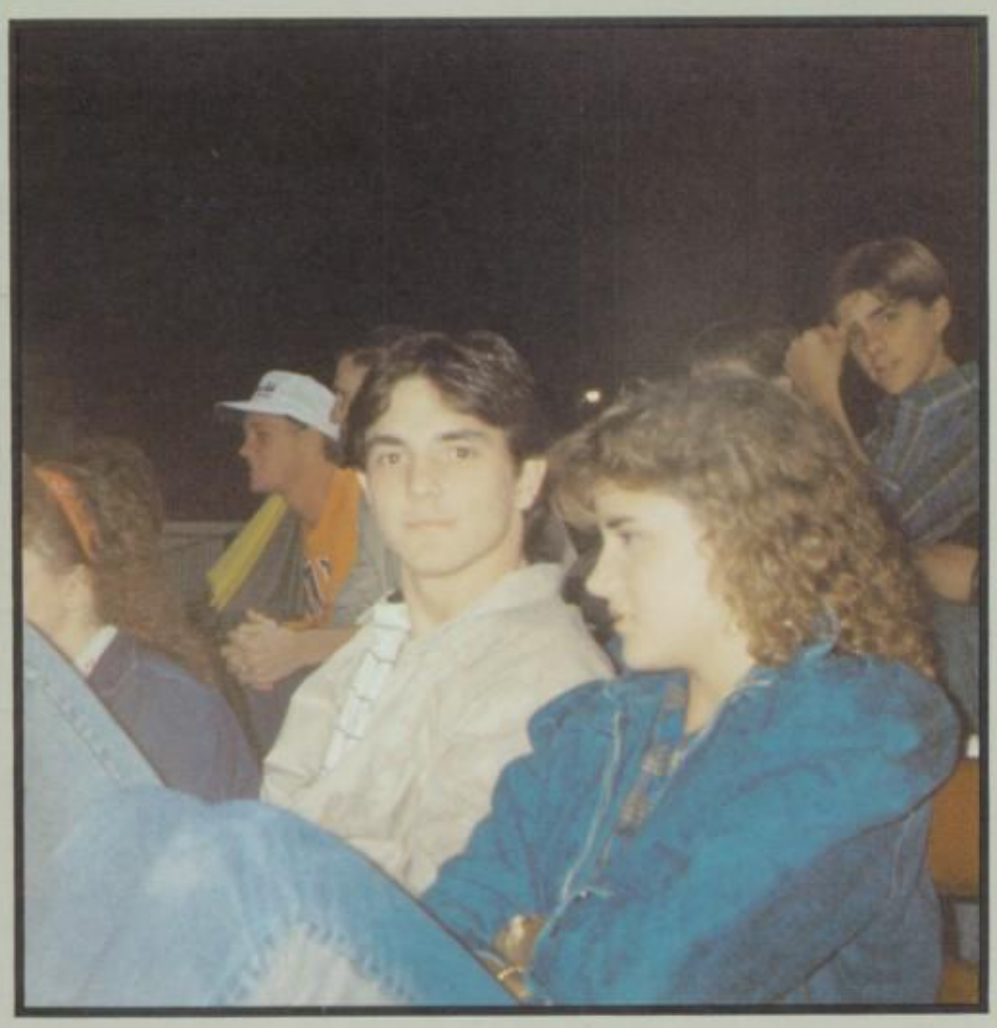
the illusion that one has previously had an experience that is actually new to one

After the parade, Stacy Morrison tells Tom Lamb what she's planning to do after the homecoming game.

The cheerleaders first run-through sign gave our football players hope.

Alfonzo Edwards tries to liven up an otherwise boring history class.

After a long day at school, Jamie Bennett is ready to get home and relax.



Deena Notar, Amy McKay, and Kim Stanley take a break from watching the football game to tell a few jokes.

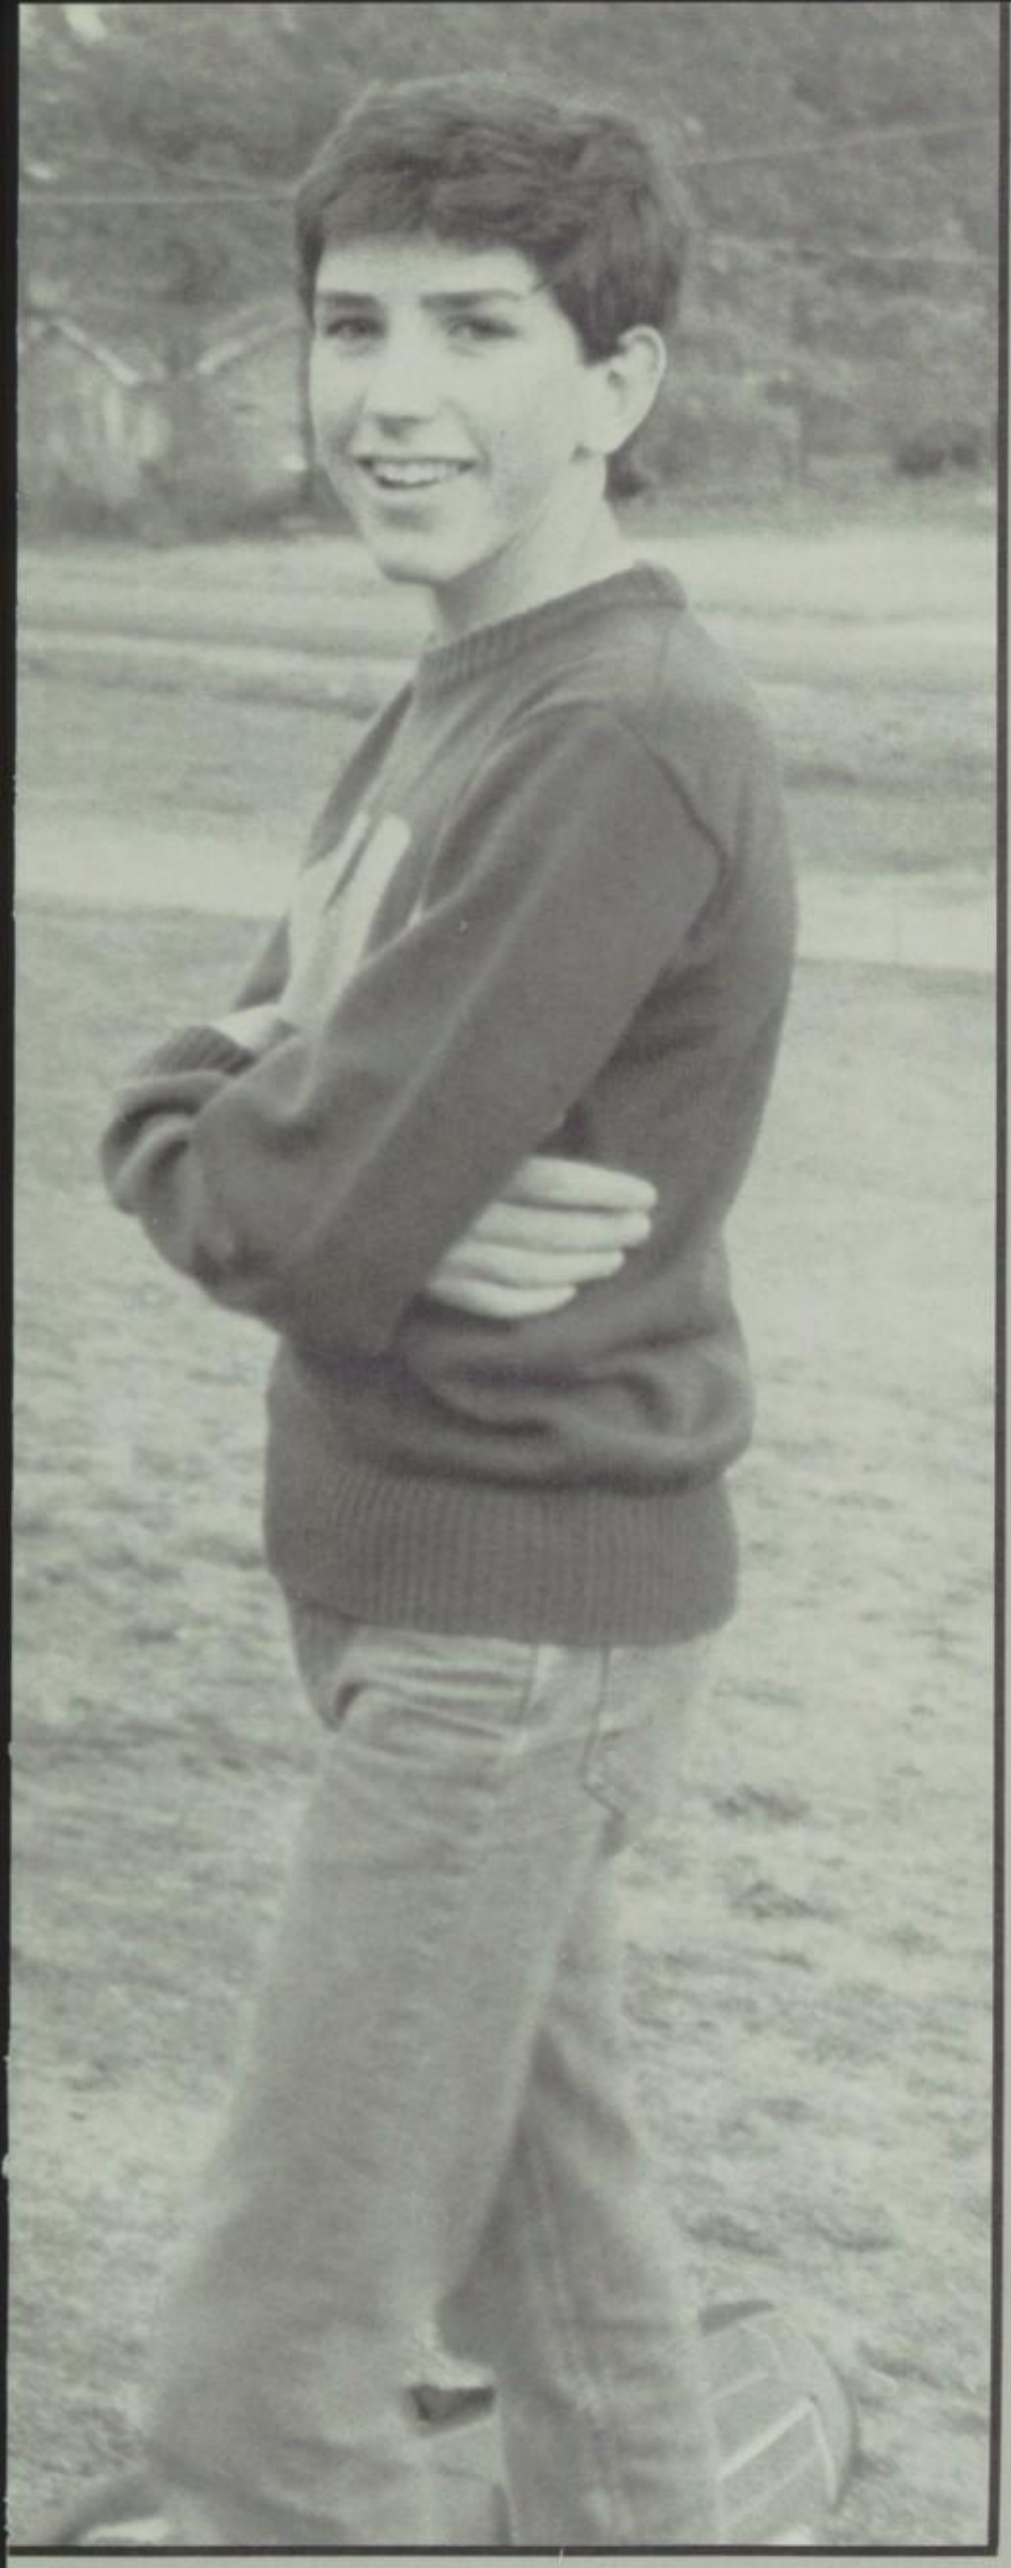
Teresa Lee doesn't seem to mind waiting for her ride home from school; she takes advantage of the time and catches up with her friends.

As a beautiful sunset closes another day, another year at JHS comes to an end.

Alex Williams sits alone in the hall taking a make-up exam.

Noelle Viscasillas thought a small snack after school might be nice.



What Is Déjà Vu?

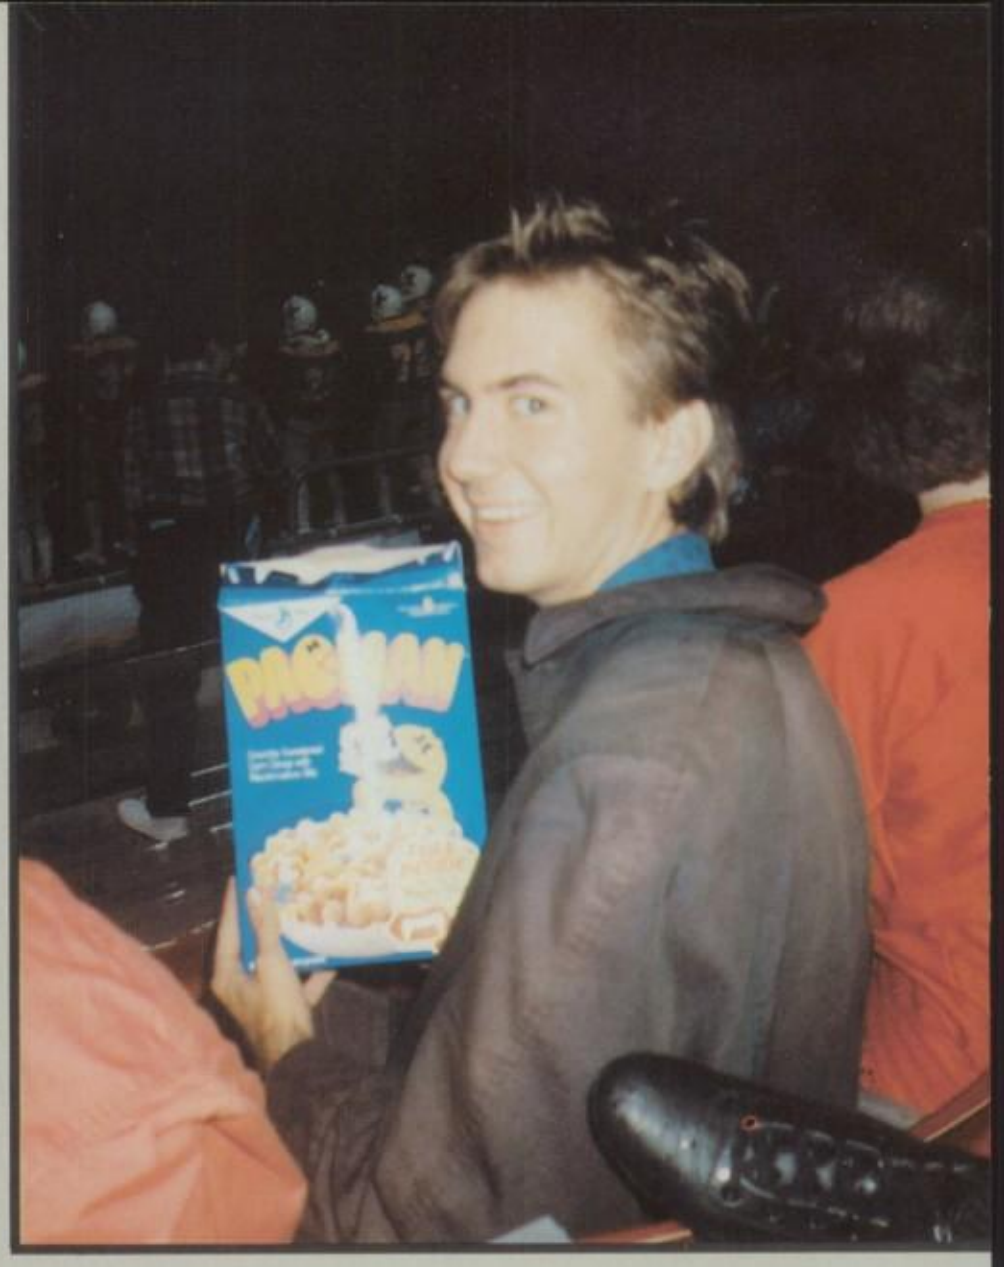
"Is it French or Spanish or what?"

"Hello? I don't know. I don't never pay no attention to nothin' but English!"

David Gray readies himself for golf practice.

Cheryl Walker patiently awaits the beginning of one of many band practices.

At the football games, Chris Nemeth prefers Pac-Man cereal over popcorn.



Ramona Phillips finds a cozy seat in Chris Chapman's lap.

Déjà Vu

A yearbook is a book-form of déjà vu because, through it, we relive the past school year. Brian Bell, a freshman, said that it is something "you've seen or done before."

For some of us, it is a farewell, a history book. For others it is just a beginning. Seniors will keep their yearbook to remind them of the way they were. Younger students keep theirs as a foresight of things to come.

We hope that the yearbook will recapture all of the special moments of the past year.

Making Memories

Making memories is one of the most special things about going to high school. So many events, that people will always remember, happen during high school years. These events could be everyday occurences, like a hug from a best friend or tripping up the stairs between classes. These events could happen only once a year, like the Homecoming football game and dance, or the Junior-Senior prom. Memories are what makes high school-well-high school!!!

Aren't Jon Graham and Bubba Cushman tough?

Elizabeth Harvey poses after school.

Amy McKay and Kim Stanley will brave the rain to watch a Jacksonville football game!

Jon Read stands dazzled in the hall, wondering where the girls are.

A Smile . . .

This year at JHS has been full of a lot of work and thousands of tests. Sometimes just one simple smile from a person can make your day, especially on Mondays and those dull, boring days when everything you do seems to go wrong. You should also never forget, though, to smile yourself. In school, it is important to keep a cheery look on your face so it makes you and everyone around you feel better. Alot of times, school is not all that it is cracked up to be, but if everyone smiles, it will make school much more tolerable.

The Homecoming Pep Rally was too much fun for Jamie Bennett and Deena Notar.

Wonder what Susan Spector and Becky Porter are smiling about?

John Locke carries Rani Welch over the threshold.

Tom Gray whispers sweet nothings into Merideth Taube's ear.

Nancy Sanford can't wait to get to class, but Holly Hill doesn't look too thrilled.

This is the best Kenny Klemasewski, Mike Miller, and David Grimes could do.

Mia Surace is ready and willing for this picture.

Andy Mashburn wears the cartoon character, "Gumby", on his sweat shirt.

Bobby Helm shows off his faddish haircut.

Trends

In today's world, there are many different fads. In California, Spagos is in, and padded shoulders are out. Here in Jacksonville, McDonalds is popular and everyone wears padded-shoulder clothes. There is a great contrast in this comparison, but the idea is the same. A fad is a custom, style etc. that many people are interested in for a short time; passing fashion, craze.

At Jacksonville High School, as at many high schools, the fads come and go so quickly that students have difficulty in keeping up. For example, students' hair styles have gone from punked to shaven to punked within months. Girls haven't taken part in this fad, but their fad, wearing multiples of necklaces is equally as popular. Déjà vu, blue jean jackets are back, too! Also, please don't let us forget about Coca-Cola clothes. There are watches, jeans, shirts, sweat-shirts, and sweaters. It's popular right now for people to pay to advertise for designers; if the clothes don't have the brand-name printed largely enough for the blind to read it, it isn't in style.

There is always more than one fad at a time. The one each person chooses reflects his personality, who he is, and what he wants to be.

Jolynn Johnson pays $35 to advertise Coca-Cola clothes.

Two pair of anonymous feet sport Sebago shoes.

Melody Landers prefers the Western look while Katy Sowell is electric. Did you notice Katy's Aigner keychain?

Cherish — Prom 1986

On May 10, 1986, The Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Holiday Inn in Oxford, Alabama. Freddie C. was the D.J., and two bands played for us. Most of us danced to the music while others just sat and watched. At ten o'clock, our two hostesses, Susan Hay and Jennifer Johnson, announced the King — Scott Grumley, and the Queen — Tammie McKerly. Afterwards, the dancing resumed and we ate the delicious food. When the Prom ended, each couple then went on their separate ways.

Your Prom King and Queen.

"I hope this night ends soon!"

The Prom is a time for loving couples.

The Queen danced with her lucky date.

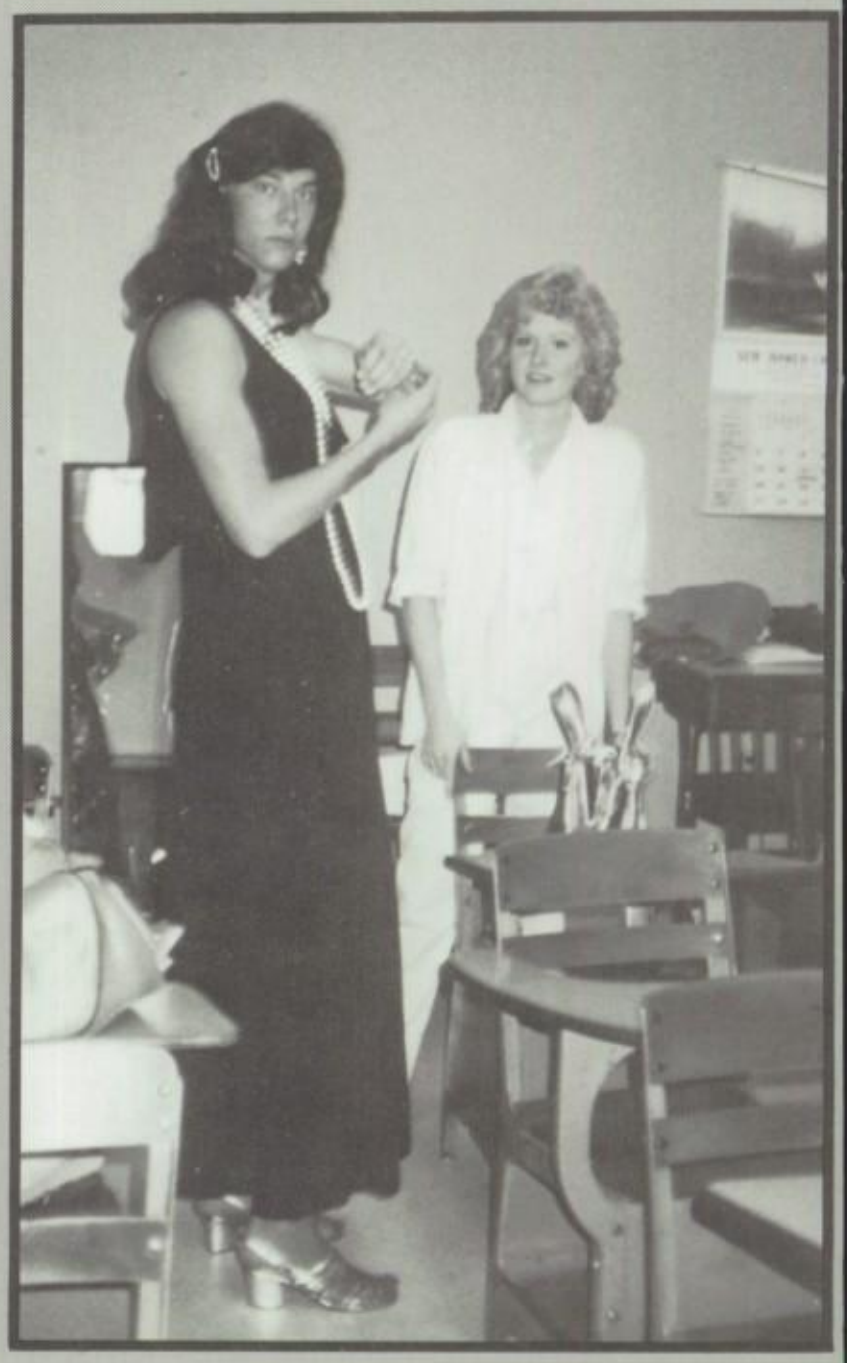
Kim Myrick and Scott Grumley enjoyed the evening.

Freddie C., the D.J., provided the music for the second half of the evening.

Everyone enjoyed dancing.

1986 Womenless

The women-less beauty pageant was an exciting and fun-filled evening for some of the guys of J.H.S. They were to dress up in ladies clothes, wear a wig or have their own hair fixed, and present themselves in a lady-like fashion in front of three judges. The top ten were David Klay, Darryl Chapman, Tim Attinger, Alex Williams, Scott Grumley, Mike Viers, Derek Pate, John Graham, Frank Thompson, Brian Jamison, and Ravi Choppella. Third runner-up and Miss Congeniality was Rovi Choppella. Second runner-up was John Graham. First runner-up was Frank Thompson, and the winner was Derek Pate.

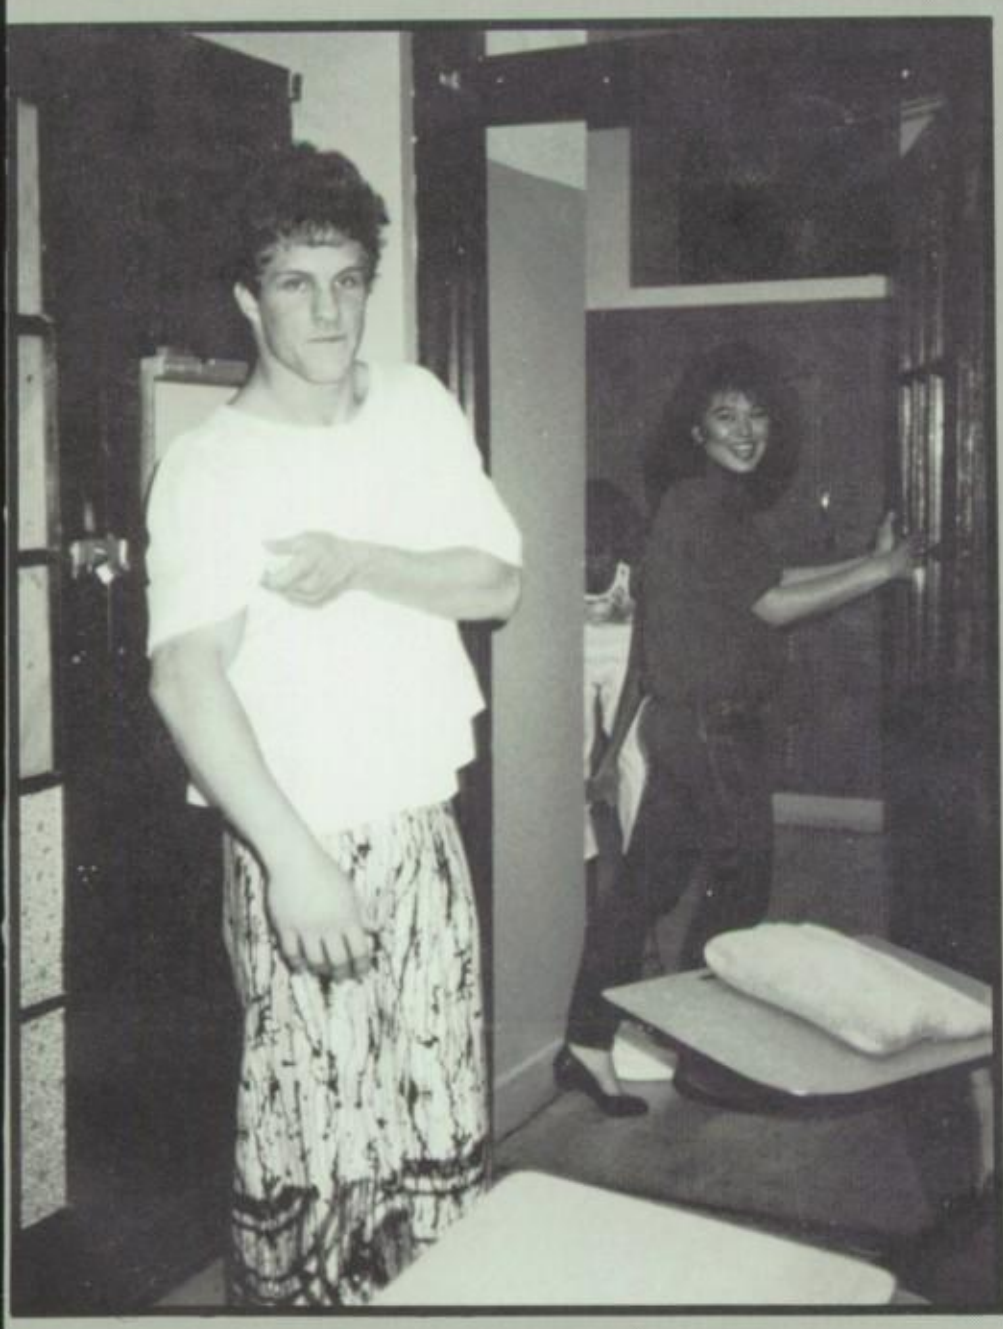


Cleopatra of J.H.S.

"Oh, this pageant is just breathtaking."

"I can't get these straps fixed."

Beauty Pageant



The four most "women-less" beauties at J.H.S.

"My masculinity is just overwhelming."

"Let me show you my muscles!"

THE SOAPY MURDER CASE

The Soapy Murder Case took place on March 5 and 6. The J.H.S. Drama Club put on a "whodunnit?" farce. It was directed by J.S.U. drama student, Jeff McKerly. The cast and crew had lots of fun preparing for it the weeks beforehand. Then, opening night, butterflies were everywhere, but they all did just fine.

The cast:
Horatio Tucker . . . Franklin Walker
Mrs. Naugahide . . . Michelle Martinez
Ivy M. Robespierre . . . Stacy Hurst
Link Kenecott . . . Jeff McKerly
Dottie Duncan . . . Leigh Reynolds
Jessica Courtney . . . Julie Clark
Dr. Brock Rittenhouse . . . David Dobbins
David Sommerset . . . Lee Pope
Mona La Mooch . . . Cheré Lee
Phil Reinholt . . . Holly Joiner

The play consisted of three acts that all took place in Horatio's Penthouse apartment in New York City. The time was the present. The plot revolved around two murders that took place at the apartment. Everyone there was trying to find out who the murderer was, for it was obviously someone who was there, which was everybody. The result was bellyaching laughter. When the murderer was finally revealed, everyone was shocked.

The cast puts on make-up backstage before the play.

"Mona La Mooch" and "Horatio Tucker" take time backstage for a quick snap.

"Jessica" and "Link" get together despite the differences.

Michalle Martinez peeks out the curtain to see who is there.

Kneeling: Lee Pope as David; David Dobbins as Dr. Brock; standing L-R: Stacy Hurst as Ivy M. Robespiere; Julie Clark as Jessica; Director Jeff McKerely as Link; Franklin Walker as Horatio Tucker; Leigh Reynolds as Dottie Duncan; Cheré Lee as Mona La Mooch; and Michelle Martinez as Mrs. Naughihide.

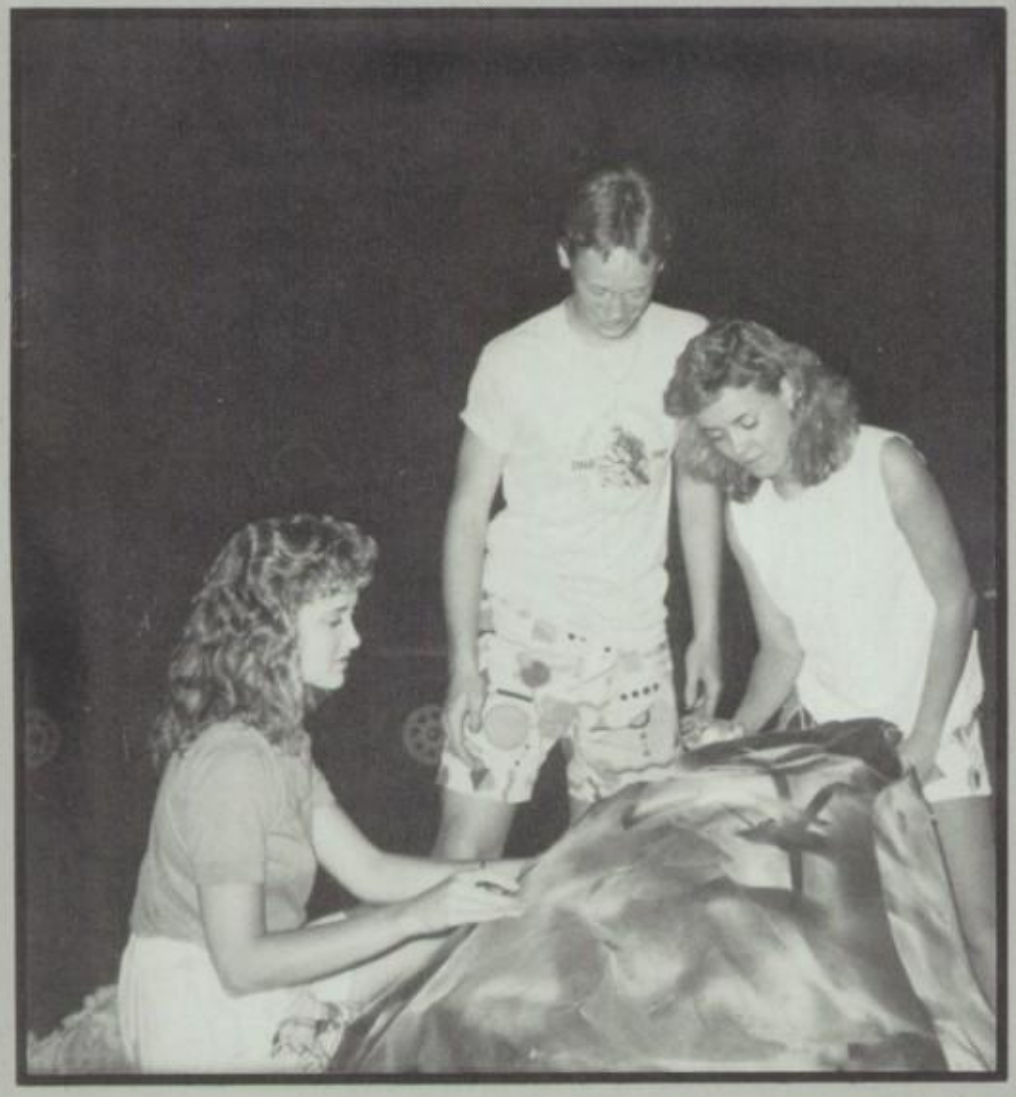
PREPARATION

Mike Beavers was a victim of the most favorite Homecoming pastime — water balloon fighting.

October 5, Homecoming night, may have been exciting, but the days before it were just as exciting. Each grade participated in building floats that would be displayed Friday in the parade.

A new event came into float building — water balloon fighting. Water balloon fighting is a very strenuous sport. It involves circling the neighborhood, in cars or trucks, scouting the area for helpless (or rather balloonless) victims and then bombarding them with balloons filled with water. This added a little excitement to the ho-hum homecoming week.

On Friday, after school was out, the parade was held. The first place float was the Seniors'. The Juniors placed second, followed by the Freshmen class at third.



Jennifer Johnson, Jimmy Moerls, and Shannon Gaddy discussed how to make a rock.

The seniors had a great time working on their winning float.

Homecoming

The Seniors won first place for their float and the theme "Eat Panther Meat."

The Juniors came in a close second with — "Rock Southside."

The Freshmen rounded up the top three with — "Stuff the Panthers."

HOMECOMING WEEK

Homecoming week was filled with many exciting events. During the week, students dressed-up at school to show their spirit. After school, they worked on the floats, and some participated in water balloon fights. Spirit was also shown at school by students writing on their cars and by teachers decorating their doors. Thursday night the Homecoming pep rally was held, then everyone left to put the finishing touches on their floats. Friday night, everyone came dressed in their best outfits to watch the game. Afterwards, the dance was held and everyone seemed to have a great time.

Everyone enjoyed themselves at the dance.

The beginning of the Homecoming game was an exciting moment for everyone.

Juniors show their spirit by writing on their cars.

Everyone enjoys the pep ralley and bonfire during Homecoming Week.

Mrs. Padgett shows off her first place door.

Birthday Blast

A birthday party was given for Michelle Martinez on December 5, 1986. Jacksonville High School's own band, Blind Vision, played. The band consisted of Rob Dunaway, lead singer and lead guitar, Chris Nemeth, bass, and Joel Wade, on the drums. A variety of people attended the birthday party for Michelle. But the party ended a lot sooner than everyone had planned. The decibel level of the band was a little too loud for the Jacksonville Police, and the party was over at 11:30.

Joel Wade was happy to be playing drums.

Chris Nemeth played bass for Blind Vision.

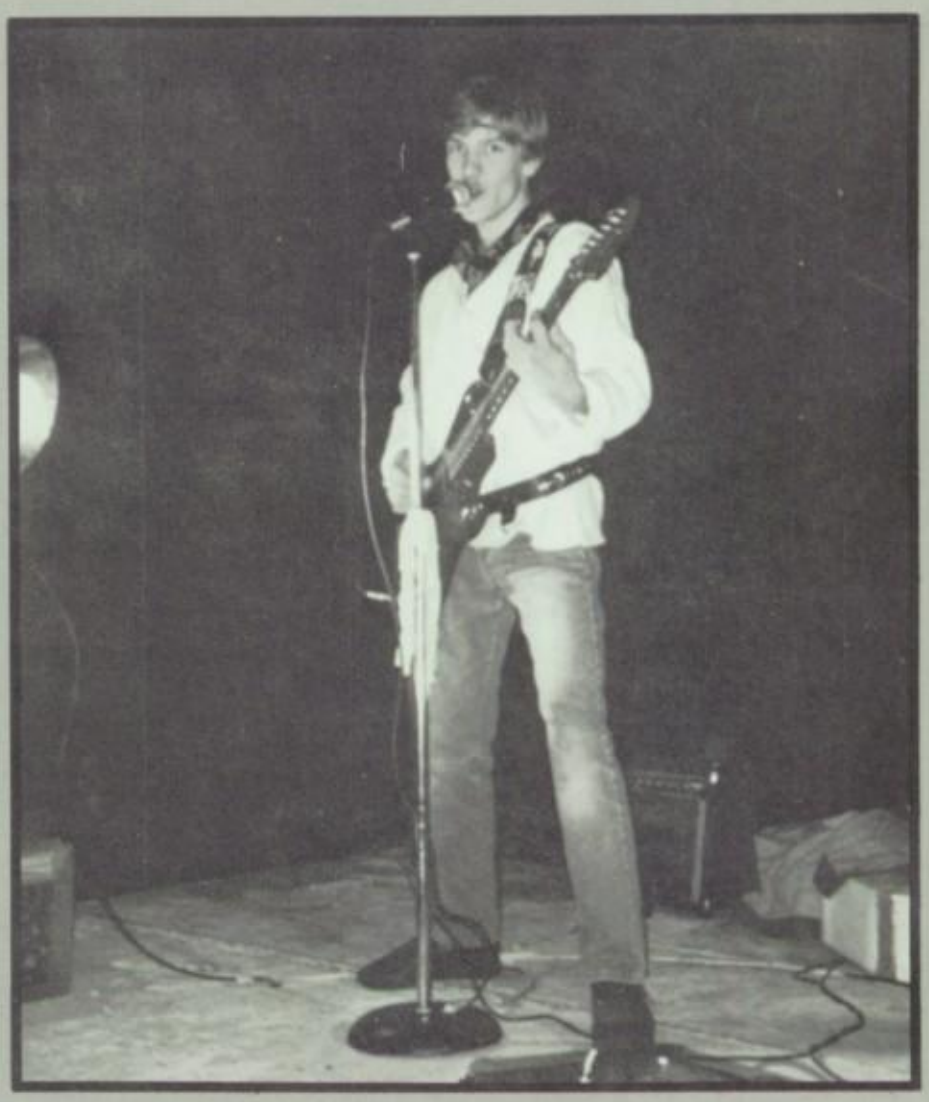
Patrick Stokesberry, Tommy Wade, and Travis Loyd took a break from the cold weather.

Rob Dunaway belted out the vocals.



Pat Barker and Tim Attinger slam-danced.

The band wasn't the only activity going on at the party.

Ray St. Germain, Shannon McMahon, and Steve Schaller had a great time.

You are so beautiful to me

Go ahead Make our day!

The new and improved Blues Brothers: Klaus Belushi and Gene Akyrod.

O.K. Franklin, how much of your nose did you want me to cut?

Another exciting night in Jacksonville.

You did what to whom?

Jonathan, come back!!

Terri, This is how I want my hair cut.

Brace Face

The tin grin is in, at least for these people. Many people at this school have had to wear braces at one time or another. If you are lucky you do not have to wear them at all. But, these unlucky people have to deal with the "train tracks of life." They have to deal with pain and monthly check-ups at their local orthodontist, along with the sarcastic cracks made by fellow students and friends.

For most of the people who have worn braces — it pays off greatly. As you can see here, all the pain and suffering they had to go through paid off in the end.

So, if anyone you know wears braces, don't make fun of them, instead sympathize with them and be glad you don't wear them. If you do wear braces, you have our blessings.

It all began with a stroke of bad luck,
I fell over the handlebars and earned the name "buck."
I was teased and tormented during grade school,
Because my buck teeth were not considered cool.
Dr. C. decided we could wait no longer,
The time was right, my roots would only grow stronger.
An impression was made and X-rays were took,
They snapped enough pictures to fill a whole book.
The nurse jabbed razor-sharp spacers in my gums,
Which accomplished only to accumulate scum.
Then the D-dreaded day was here,
My teeth wouldn't see light for at least five years.
The novacaine deadened my mouth,
And I lisped until I got to my houth.
My mother blended my meals into mush,
And she chewed up what I couldn't crush.
My nickname changed to tin grin,
My braces became the ultimate sin.

FLAND

Tanya Shaw shows-off the results of once being a "brace face."

Stacy Morrison thinks her braces look better than Catherine Malone.

Noelle Viscasillas hopes to have her braces off before graduation.

Charlie Holcomb thinks his braces give him charisma.

Jennifer Perdue smiles now for the camera, but does she smile this wide for the orthodontist?

New! Improved! (Believe It Or Not)

This year, Jacksonville High School students have eaten in a "new lunchroom." This year, students serve their own food and choose their own drink. If the hot lunch doesn't appeal to them, students can try the salad bar. Students are also allowed to sit wherever they want. Everyone, including the faculty, seems to enjoy the new lunchroom.

Ice cream is still a popular choice for or with lunch.

This is one of our new cashiers.

Laura Dascanio eats a delicious salad.

Everyone gets to sit where they want to this year in the lunchroom.

Susan Couch fixes herself a salad from the new salad bar.

A friend and Morey Gaddy like to bring their lunch from home instead of trying out the new lunchroom.

THE SLEEPER

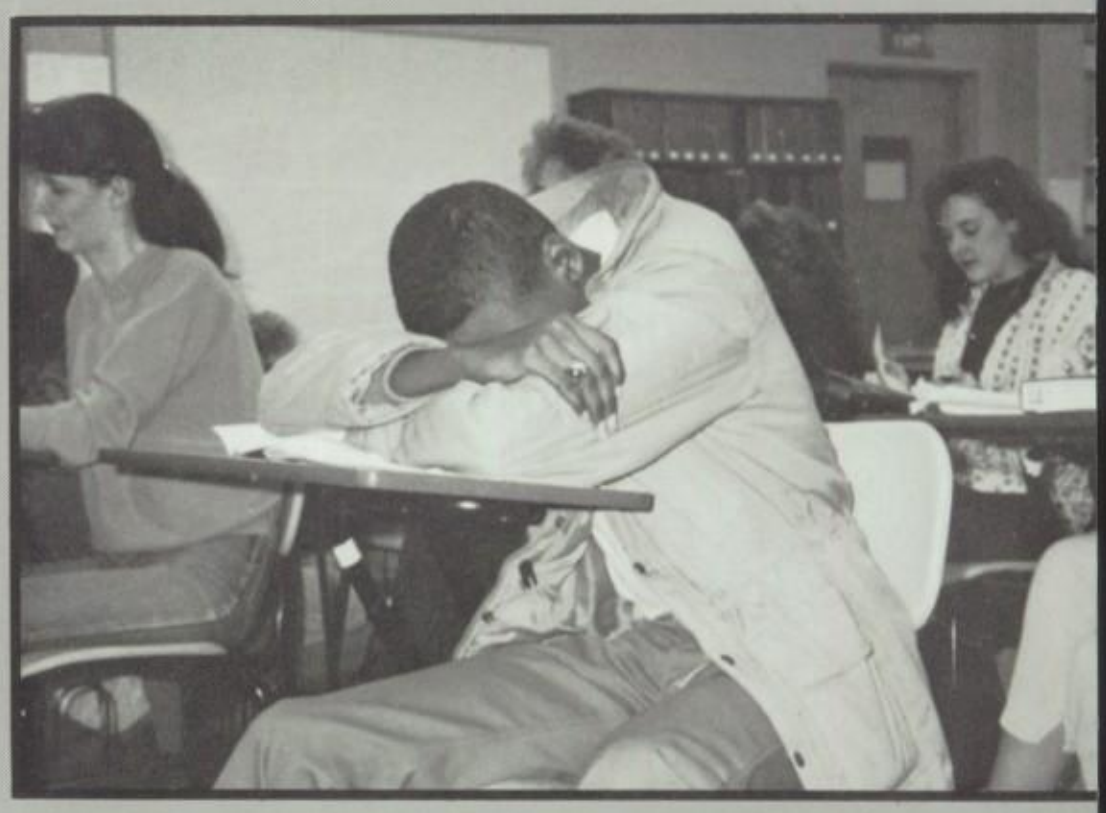
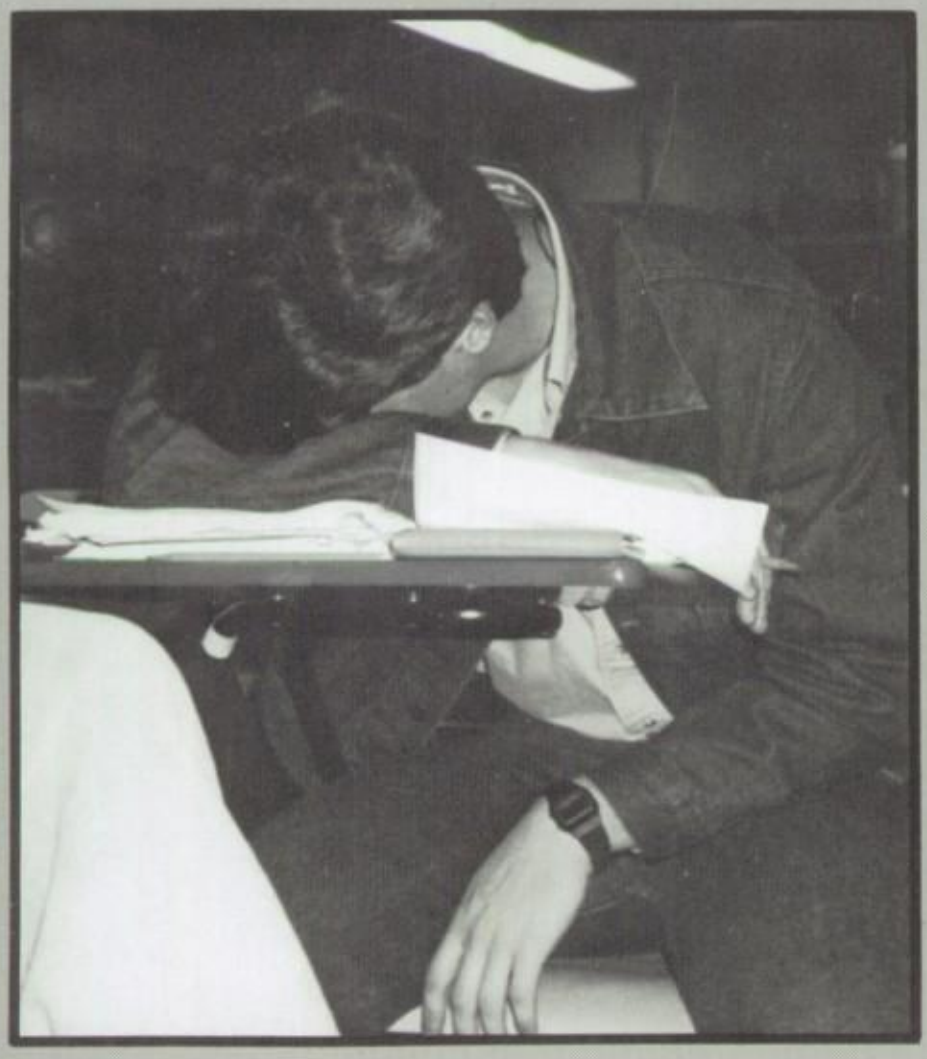
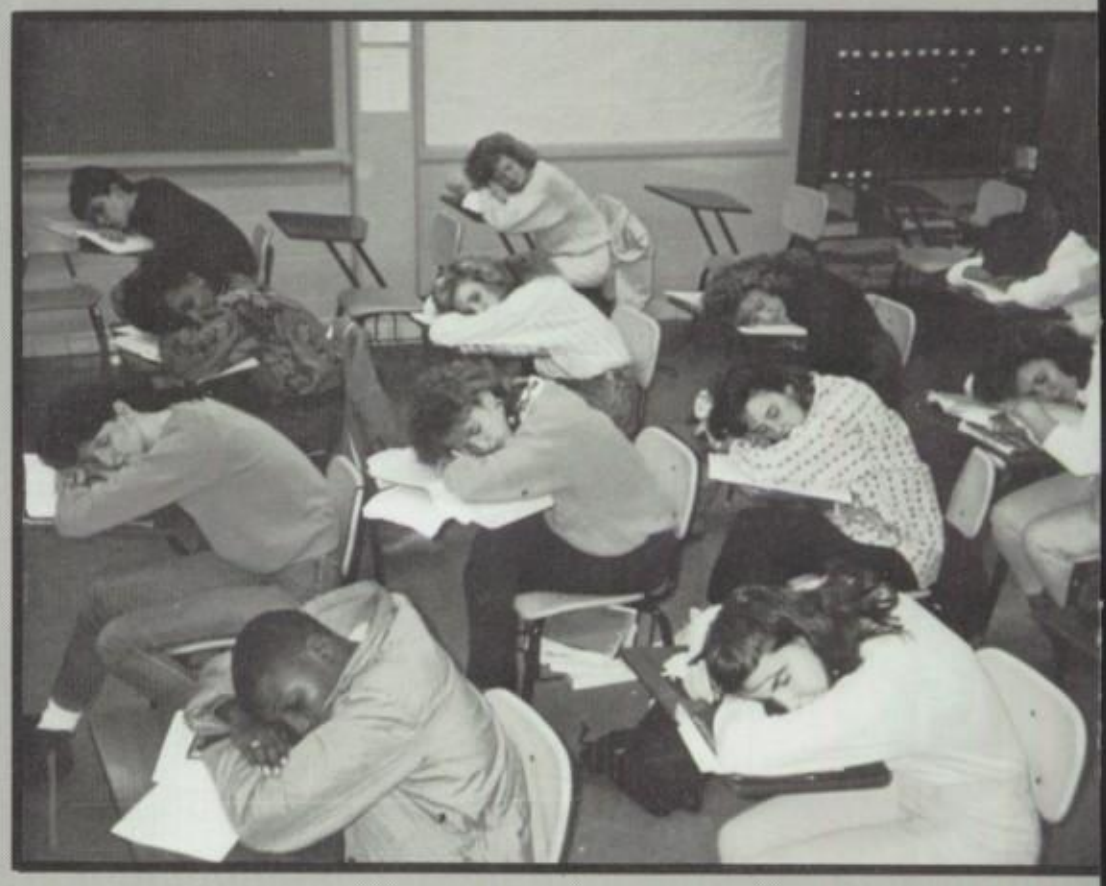
John Spaulding sleeps while the rest of the class works.





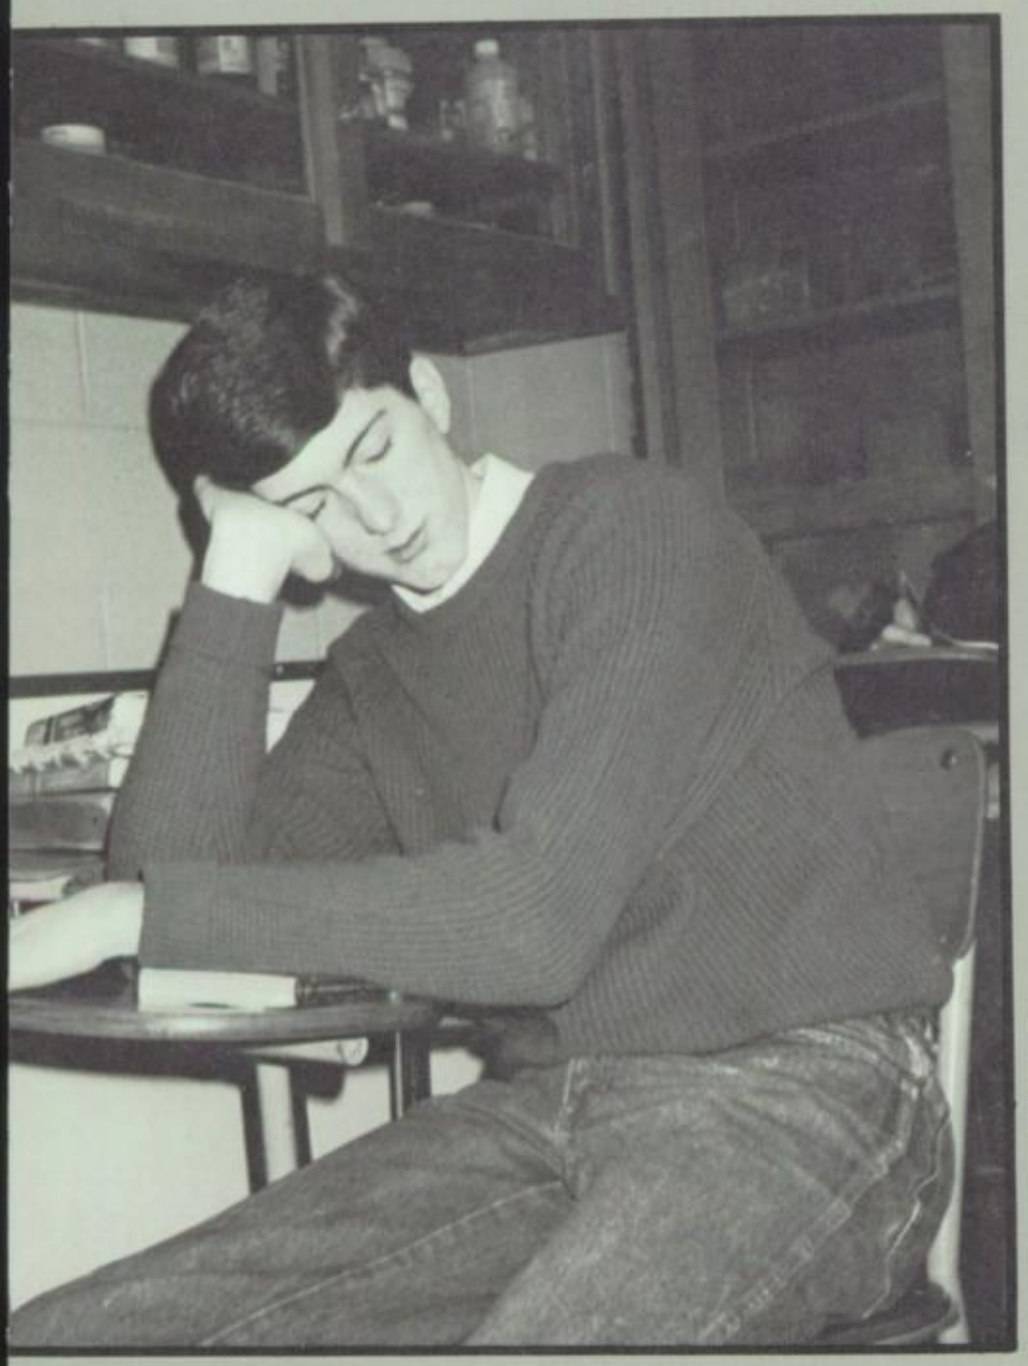
Jonathan Tompkins didn't get enough sleep last night because of a late basketball game.



After lunch, Mrs. Langley's Chemistry class takes a nap.

ZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZ

Even David Dempsey has to catch-up on sleep sometimes.

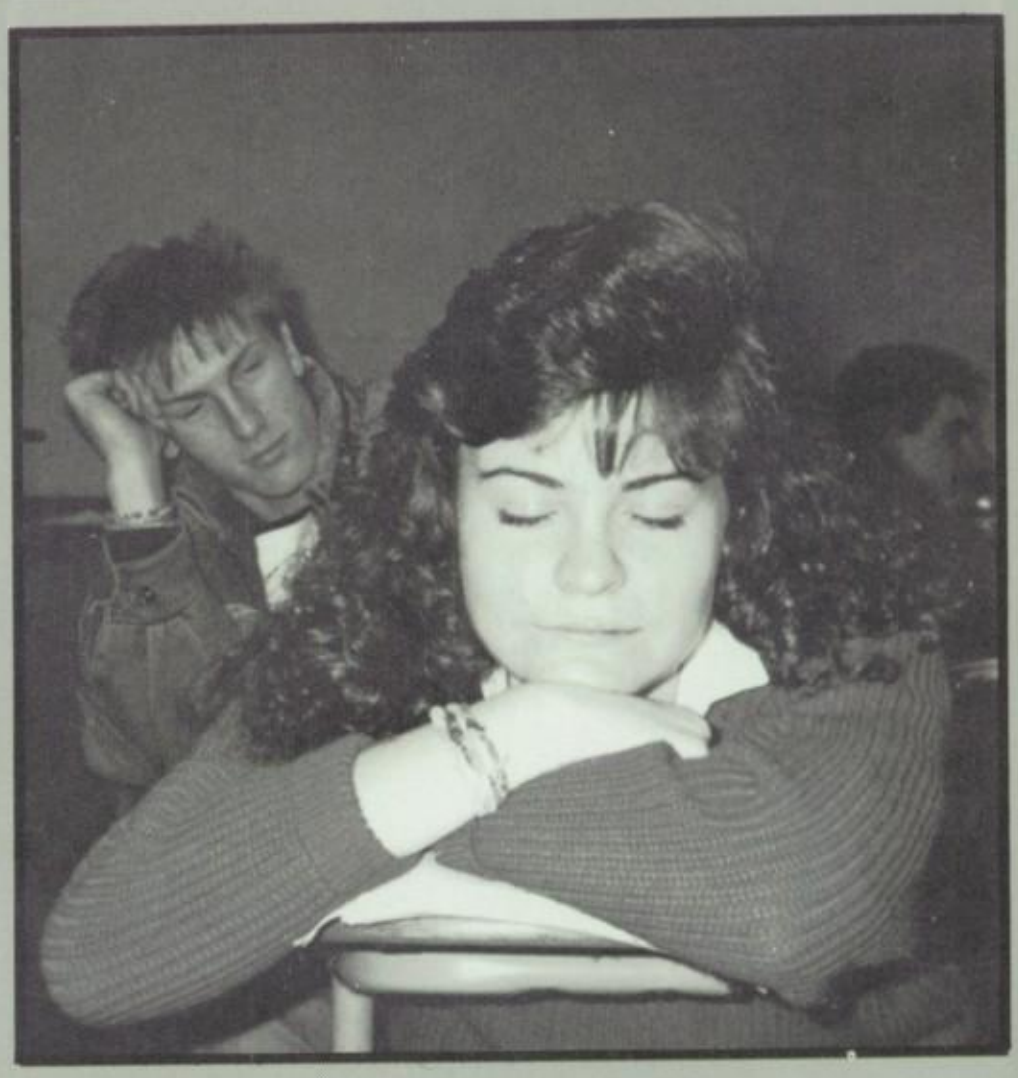


ZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZz

Ho-hum! It's another exhilarating day at school. Not only do I have to be at school at 7:55 a.m., but I also have to stay awake while I'm here. Or do I?

We all have our own ways of sneaking a "z." From "reading with our head on our desk" to "thinking about today's assignment." High School students are able to find the wittiest explanations for dozing off in class; and for the most comfortable positions. Here are some illustrations how we, the student body at Jacksonville High School, assume our favorite position of the "The Sleeper."

ZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZzZz



ZZZZZZZZZ

HOWDY!!!

Have you ever walked down the hall or between buildings between classes and had to say "Hello" at least 10 times? I bet you might have started out with "hello," then said "hey," then went to "hi," or possibly even to a mere smile and wave. It gets monotonous, yet we continue to do it day after day. Why? Human need — everyone likes to feel wanted or important; and by saying hello to friends or having friends say hello to you makes us feel good.

So when you're on your way to your next class and trying to cram a 20 minute conversation into the 5 minutes you have and someone says hello — make sure you take the time to reply — just think of the day you needed a "hello" to perk you up.

John Peppers and Jamie Henson wave at their friend J. Daniels.

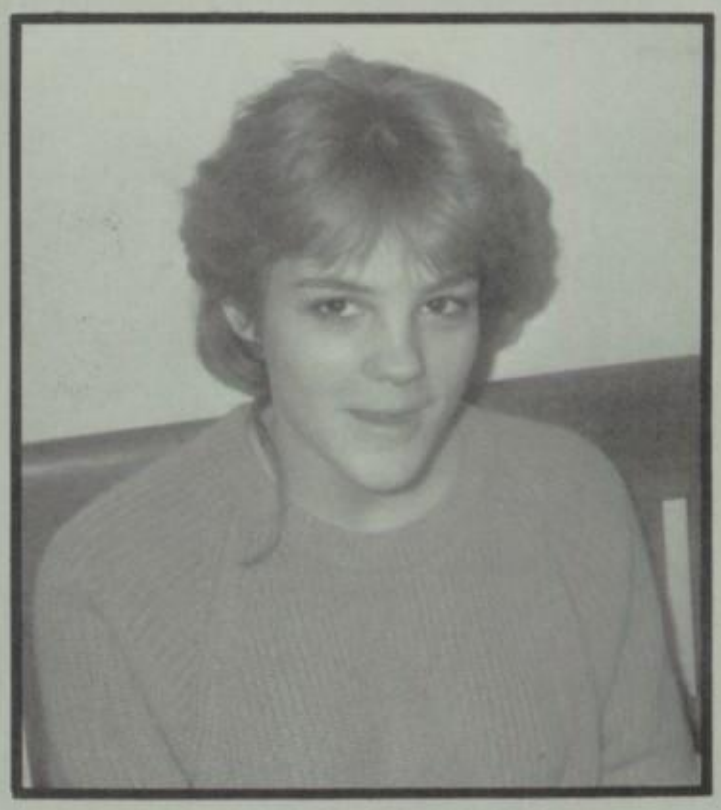
While Debbie Gaddy waits to use the phone, she takes time to have her picture taken.



Nancy Sanford takes a break from class.

LAMPOONS

Each year, unexpected pictures are taken of students. These are commonly known as lampoons. Students are surprised when the camera goes off at an embarrassing moment, but are shocked when they open their annual and find their picture in it. Plus, there is something even more embarrassing written underneath the picture!

Not all lampoon pictures are unexpected. Some people pose for pictures that they believe will be put in the annual in a regular spot. But then they discover that their picture has been chosen for a lampoon. Some pictures are taken of people that are posing but are also doing (or wearing) something embarrassing. They believe that there is no way that their picture will be put in the annual. But then they must remember the lampoon page was made especially for them.

Hey Man, You think I could grow a mu tache like that?

YEAR IN REVIEW

"The Year In Review" has been a good one. It's hard to believe that it is almost over. For the class of '87, it's a goodbye' but for the class of '92, it is only a beginning. For the other classes, it is just another year full of high school memories.

There will be some fond memories of this year. For instance — the football games. We may not have had our best year on the field, but we sure had a good one in the stands. Homecoming week was packed full of memories. The class floats, the parade, the game, and the dance were all fun times to remember. These are just a few of the things that we'll never forget about the 1986-87 school year.

Dale McVeigh and Noelle Viscasillas work on the Senior Homecoming float.

Everyone loved the friday football pep rallys.

Miss J.H.S.

On Saturday, November 8, 1986, the Miss J.H.S. beauty pageant was held in the Jacksonville High School Auditorium. The pageant was sponsored by the Senior High Student Council. Susan Hay provided the music, and Tim Attinger and Mike Beavers emceed.

The girls participated in evening gown competition and were judged on personality, poise, appearance, and speaking ability.

The ten finalists were as follows: Whitney Mashburn, Rani Welch, Teresa Lee, Leigh Cheever, Lori Parris, Leigh Reynolds, Kim Berry, Julie Sayers, Jenny GeBott, and Sonya Cadorette.

Chosen as Miss Congeniality by the other contestants was Tersa Lee. Fourth Alternate was Leigh Cheever; Third Alternate, Kim Berry; Second Alternate, Lori Parris; First Alternate, Julie Sayers.

Selected by the judges as the 1986 Miss J.H.S. was Leigh Reynolds. Leigh was crowned by last year's queen, Robin Norred.

What Makes A Rainy Day?

What makes a rainy day? We all have them sometimes. Maybe you woke up on the wrong side of bed and everybody just won't leave you alone. You're sure to have a rainy day when you're late for school and you've forgotten that big homework assignment. Dropping your lunch tray or falling down in front of your classmates always ruins the day. What about having your face break-out on picture day? Although we all have some rainy days, there's always a rainbow to remind us of brighter days ahead.

"When Physics is the class you look forward to!"

Katy Sowell looks a little upset. She must have just finished and possibly failed another Algebra II test.

Shannon Whitten gets a little angry at getting her picture taken unexpectedly.

Paul Hillegass looks discouraged with the way the float is progressing.

Bryndis Norred laughs while Carmen Brown gets angry at Mr. Rhodes for cutting her down.

Although P.E. may be the easiest class, these students don't think that it is the most exciting.

Although the Varsity Cheerleaders don't enjoy their practice they know it is part of their job.

HOMECOMING PARADE 1986-'87

On Friday, October 3, 1986, the Homecoming parade proceeded down Pelham Road. This annual parade consisted of each grade's floats, different clubs, various cars, and, of course, the homecoming attendants. The attendants rode in their respective cars in increasing class order, ending with the Homecoming King and Senior Attendants. The Jacksonville High School Band marched, providing the music. Crowds of people turned out to watch. Finally, the parade winded down with the Skoal Train, indicating more festivities to come later in the evening.

The J.H.S. Varsity Cheerleaders cheered the Eagles on.

The 1986-87 attendant for the Eighth Grade was Whitney Parris.

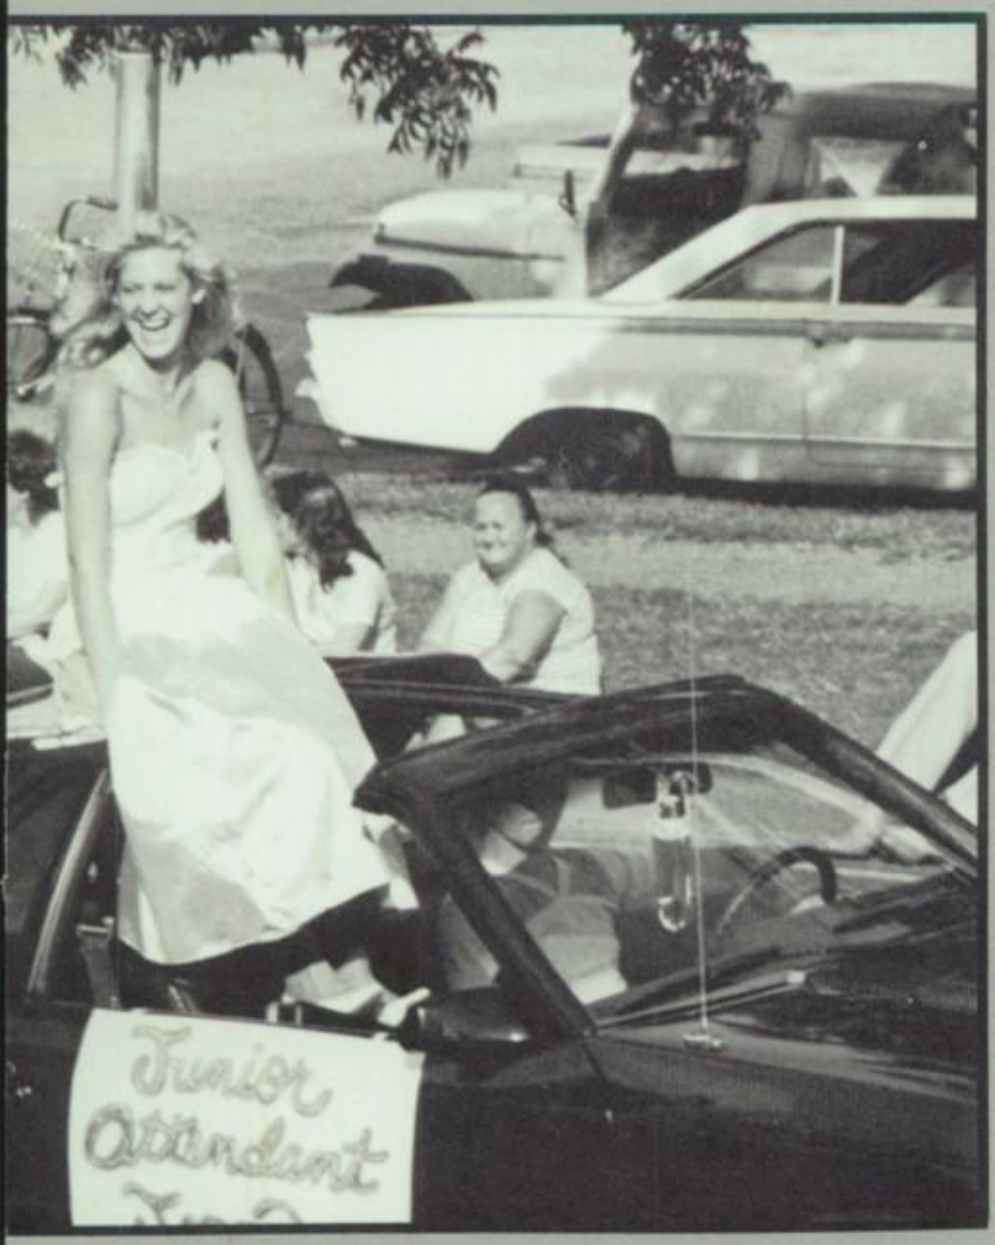
Chrissy Bryant, the 1986-87 Seventh Grade Attendant, was driven by Rusty Kays.

It was a hot day for the Jacksonville High School Marching Band.

The Skoal Train, a tradition at J.H.S., participated in the car competition.

eather Howell, the 1986-87 Freshman Attendant, was iven by Chris King.

Dana McCluer was the 1986-87 Sophomore Attendant.



nny GeBott, the 1986-87 Junior Attendant, was driven Chris Lacks.

Julie Sayers and Lori Parris were the 1986-87 Senior Attendants. Jonathan Tompkins was the King. They were driven by Noelle Viscasillas.

Homecoming 1986

Jacksonville, despite some fine heroics by Paul Glass and quarterback, Brian Johnson, fell to southside by a 29-7 margin. Jacksonville got on the scoreboard on a 41-yard drive in seven plays. The big play in the drive was a 27-yard pass play from Johnson to Glass for a first down at the Panthers two. Johnson, two plays later, scored on a one-yard sneak. Greg Isom booted the extra point and Jacksonville led 7-0 with 2:45 left in the first quarter. Southside scored a touchdown and kicked the conversion for a 7-7 deadlock in the second quarter. Southside made three more touchdowns getting only two of the conversions and trapped Jacksonville in the end zone for a safety. The Eagles never gave up and played hard in spite of what the scoreboard indicated.

And here comes the Eagles!

CHOIR

Director

Mrs. Betty Jeanne Dobbins

JUNIOR CHOIR

For sixteen consecutive years, the Jacksonville Junior Choir has received Superior ratings at the District Festival and has gone on to represent our school at the State Choral Festival. At State Festival our Junior Choir has been one of the very few junior high choirs in the state to receive Superior ratings.

TREBLITES

Treblites is an auditioned chorus of high school treble voices. Treblites has for many years successfully participated in District and State Choral Festivals. Each year several girls from Treblites are selected to participate in the SSA All-State Chorus.

SENIOR MIXED CHOIR

The Senior Mixed Choir of Jacksonville High School is made up of young men and women from the high school who are skilled in choral music performance. The choir has received Superior ratings in District, State, and Regional Festivals and performs for school and community functions throughout the year.

B.J.'S BARBERSHOP, INC.

Jacksonville is the only school in Alabama to offer Barbershop Chorus as part of the curriculum. B.J.'s Barbershop, Inc. is a men's chorus which specializes in barbershop style music. Members of this chorus have attended barbershop music conventions in several southeastern states.

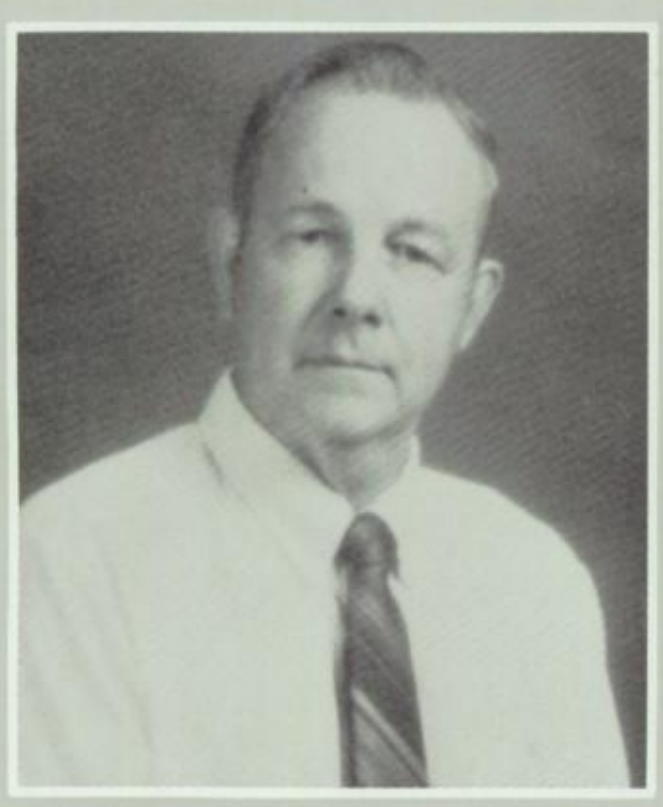
DEDICATION

Sue Jones is a person to whom we owe many thanks. Her untiring dedication to her profession makes her an example for all of us to follow. Her smile, her warmth, and her intellect make her a teacher to be admired.

Who can ignore her true love for her students? By teaching health, she provides the much needed education for teenage problems. Through her work with the Teen Involvement Program, she is helping to insure that younger students grow up in a safer, more healthful environment. Her work with S.A.D.D., Students Against Driving Drunk, shows her care for the community as well as the students.

With love and admiration, the students of Jacksonville High School dedicate the 1987 edition of the Ad Annos to Mrs. Sue Jones.

TRIBUTES



The thirty-two years of teaching and coaching are coming to a perfect culmination for Kendal Clemons. It is a sad time for JHS because few people in the history of this institution have equalled his influence. Left to former students are the memories in the 50's and 60's when he walked the sidelines as a highly respected football coach. Very few equalled his knowledge of the game. Also remembered are his many accomplishments with VICA on the district and state level. Mr. Clemons will not soon be forgotten. The students and faculty will surely miss him. Farewell and good luck.

With love and respect we bid Evelyn Douthit a pleasant retirement. For thirty years, with a friendly smile, a warm heart, and an understanding soul, she molded the minds of many young people at JHS. She was the type of teacher who always made the students proud of their work. She was a confidence builder not only as a teacher but also as a cheerleader sponsor. She encouraged students to reason out problems, to accept responsibilities, to set high goals, and to fulfill individual potential. In her retirement, she receives our best. So, with love and respect, we wish Evelyn Douthit the happiness she deserves.

In a survey, faculty members were asked: "What one thing, do you think has changed the most since your high school days?"

First on the list was clothing. Fashions, over the years, have taken on many different styles, colors, and attitudes. Many can remember strict dress codes. Second most mentioned was cirricular and school activities. A lot of classes now given were unheared of before.

Some teachers said that they remember more frequent assembly programs. Students were able to leave school for lunch, which is another difference highly mentioned. One final change is in the students themselves. Different backgrounds, newer responsibilities, and diverse interests make up the '86-'87 students, as found by this survey.

In another survey, some faculty members were asked their opinions on clubs and extra curricular activities.

Most of those surveyed glorified these experiences. Great numbers would like to see organizations, clubs, and such aspects of high school life given much more emphasis, saying that these are a student's good assets.

However, the biggest complaint is the lack of available time for many of the students. In addition, a few believe that some clubs serve no real purpose, or they maintain a view that grades are more important.

Whether or not some clubs are necessary, most faculty members agree that clubs make up the most memorable times of high school life.

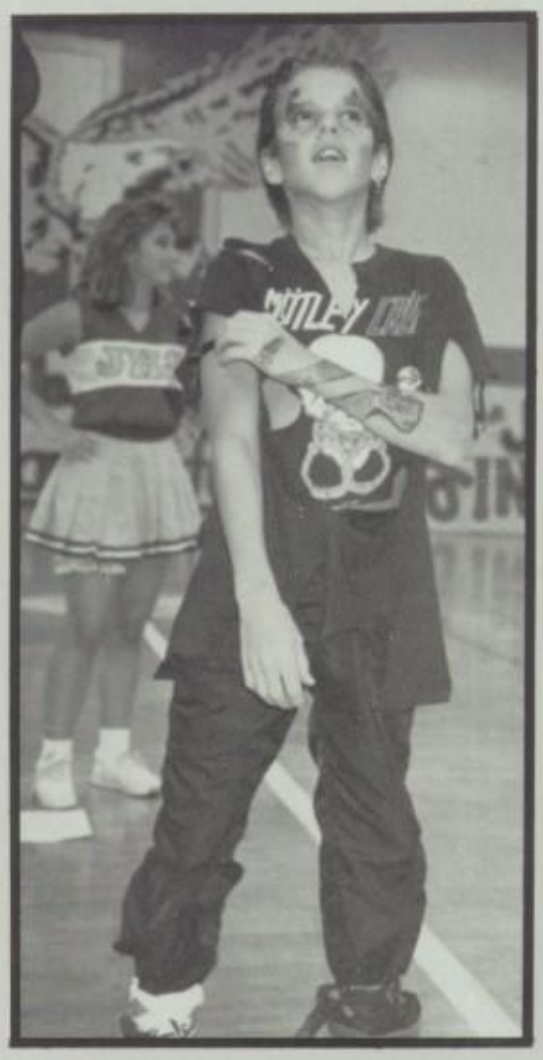
Exciting New Experiences

Becoming a seventh grader is an exciting but sometimes scary experience for twelve year olds. These new students began their new year in a new school with many new people. They automatically transform from the oldest kids in elementary school to the youngest kids at J.H.S. All students have their classes in different buildings with different people.

Although being a seventh grader is sometimes confusing, they still have time to have fun. They learn what it is like to be in clubs and attend athletic events. They learn how to dodge larger Sr. High students. These new students learn that backpacking is not just an outside activity. After several more months, they learn that twenty of these miniature adults can "swarm" a Sr. High student in their building during class change and drive him/her crazy.

Eventually, they will fit in and advance to become Kings and Queens of the school.



Seventh Graders experiment with many different styles.

Pep Rallies are an added extra in the school day.

A Seventh Grader Is . . .

. . . a big step for a sixth grader. — James Billotto
. . . someone with more responsibility.
. . . one of the little people running around under six-feet Seniors.
. . . fresh meat for the teachers.
. . . someone who just finished climbing to the top of the elementary school and then drops to the bottom again in Jr. High.
. . . the one wandering around with a stunned look.
. . . like a child to other kids.
. . . a little person that is usually in the way.
. . . a person who waits to be someone. — Alfreda Curry.
. . . glad to be out of elementary school.
. . . a kid trying to become an adult or at least a teenager.
. . . a person who is always getting picked on.
. . . LOST! — Michael Dempsey
. . . a person who is short, weird, and scared of being beaten up by a 12th grader. — Brian Lingle
. . . a little person in a big new school.
. . . more or less of a nerd than they were in elementary school.

Homecoming Memories

Homecoming is a memorable time and a new experience for many eighth graders. It is the first time many of them get to work on the float every night and go to the Homecoming Dance. They tend to participate more in the activities such as dressing up during the week and working on the float because they realize more what is going on than when they were in the seventh grade. Whitney Parris was elected by the eighth grade class as 1986 Homecoming Attendant. She represented the eighth grade class in the Homecoming Parade and at the football game that night. Many eighth graders also enjoyed going with a date or friend to the Homecoming Dance. Football season — especially Homecoming — is a highlight of the school year for eighth graders and many students at J.H.S.

Eighth Graders Are . . .

. . . the most important part of the school.
. . . an underclassman with patience. — Alison Abercrombie
. . . people who come to school for two reasons: friends and boy/girl friends. — I.C.
. . . someone who works hard to acheive his/her goals.
. . . looking forward to having a title — "Freshman"!
. . . ready to take classes other than the "basics". — J.M.
. . . someone cool! to bad everyone is not an eighth grader too! — Kimmie
. . . the life and spark of Junior High. — Randy Bailey
. . . a student with class.
. . . someone seventh graders can look up to — Robyn Bernstein.
. . . crazy.
. . . nothing compared to high school.
. . . almost a Freshman.
. . . a person who faces many problems.
. . . MARVELOUS! — Lainie Illig
. . . better than a seventh grader!
. . . the spirit of J.H.S.

Fashionable Freshmen

Freshmen have style. Each year styles change at JHS. Even styles between the grades are different. Some sophomore styles are punk rock, big sweaters, and cropped pants, Coca-Cola clothes long skirts, stirrup pants, and mini skirts. Some brand names include: Genera, Union Ba7 Palmetto, Guess Calvin Klein, Gasoline, and Espirit. Different people like to wear different things. Some styles are forbidden at our high school, but some freshmen take the chance anyway.

Finally In The Drivers Seat!

You finally made it! You are fifteen at last, and there you sit in the driver's seat ready to go. At JHS, many of the sophomores take the driver's education course for one semester. This class is designed to teach the fundamentals of driving and helps the student develop positive attitudes toward driving.

For the first six weeks, the students are in the classroom. During the second and third six weeks, the students divide into groups of three and drive on the average of once a week.

Although this class is not required, it is a good idea to take it anyway. Besides being a helpful class, it is extremely fun.

Sweet Expectations . . .

The Junior year is full of sweet expectations. It is an exciting year. You are almost to the top — only one more year until graduation and the real world!

One of the sweet expectations of the junior year is receiving class rings. At the beginning of the year, orders are placed and soon they come in and some are soon exchanged.

The sweetest expectation is of course the Junior/Senior prom. This prom is sponsored by the Juniors for the Seniors. For most of the Juniors, this is their first time to dress-up in formals and spend the evening with their special someone.

The biggest and most exciting expectation is being a Senior next year and graduating. Only one year left of their journey through high school

A Junior Is . . .

. . . A party animal!
. . . someone who is one year short of being a Senior; nothing more, nothing less
. . . someone who can only dream of becoming a Senior
. . . Fresh and so unique so let's do the dance called the Buck Wheat
. . . An educated Sophomore. Rodney Tillison
. . . a smart young Senior.
. . . The Best!!
. . . "special and truly devine, they've got all the great girlies that's all so fine."
. . . a year from graduation
. . . someone who stays in trouble. Dale Alfred
. . . a person who has only one more full year of being told what to do and how to do it until he/she is on their own. Rhett Witchere
. . . forced to act like an adult, but is still a kid at heart!
. . . anxiously awaiting Seniorhood!

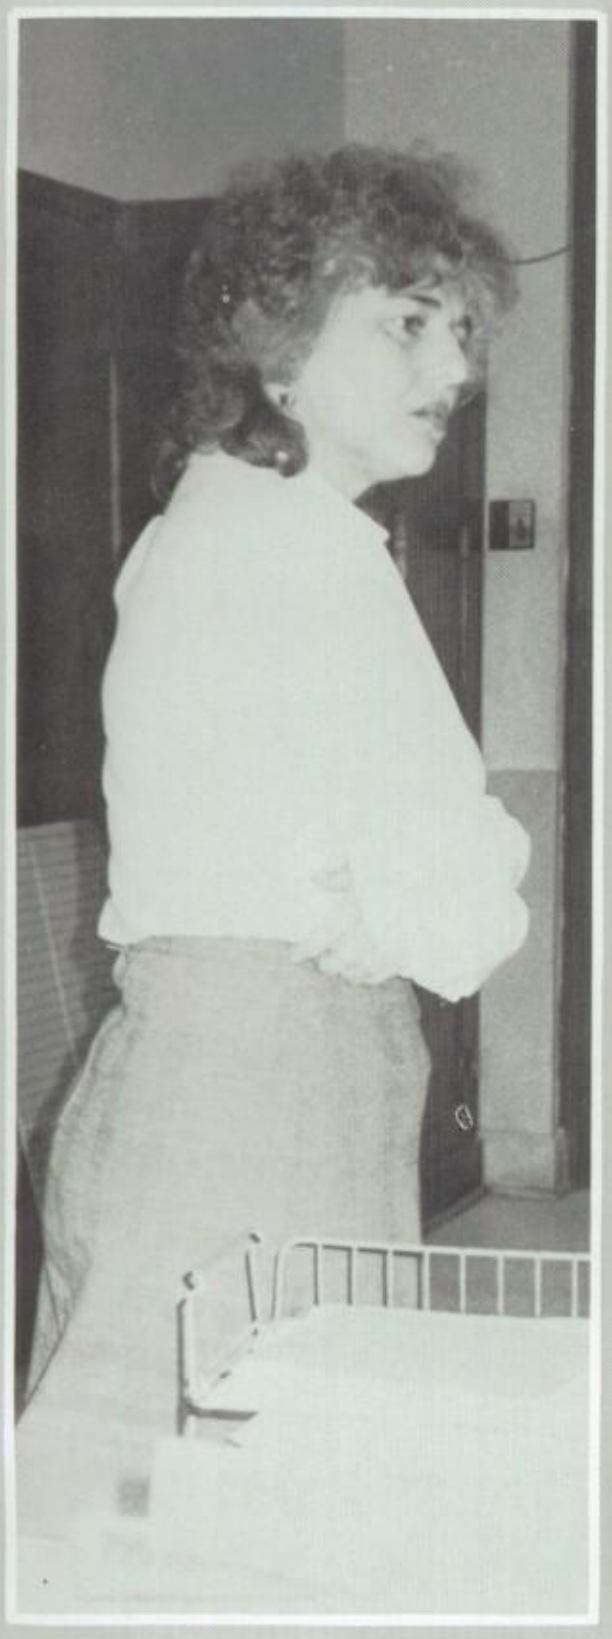
School Is A Little Bit Of . . .

"Sarge" Johnson gives one of her interesting lectures.



These 7th graders seem to be having fun, they just don't know what they are in for.

The first day of school and Mrs. Woods is giving notes!

Coach Peppers at his best!

The band's hard work paid off on the field.

. . . Work . . .

The end of summer draws near and already the football team has started practicing, as well as the band, and those cheerleaders are busy as beavers working on pom-pom routines, cheers, and skits. The Student Council gives out schedules and introduces the shy, timid Seventh graders to J.H.S. All this and school has not even begun yet; but when it does, although many are ready to get back, the work will be thrown at us in multitudes!

Brian Durdin has to work while his friends have fun outside of McDonalds.

Both football teams prepare for the coming season.

One skit done by the varsity squad, portraying the SR. football players, was well-liked.

The "Bad Boys" of the Class of '87.

Robert Murray decides to take a swim after the Senior Supper at the Victoria.

Katherine Malone and Robbie Abernathy have fun skipping fifth period daily.

. . . Play . . .

AH! Football season and a weekend to appreciate! At the end of the first week in school, most people realized the true meaning of the word weekend. Well into the second week of school, a lot of people have managed to have been moved to almost every seat in the room, forcing the teachers to make the dreaded seating chart. Teachers just do not seem to believe that we, the honorable student, are always talking about something school related (ha! ha!). But, even with a seating chart, we students find various ways to amuse ourselves along with those around us and to annoy the teacher, regardless of where we are.

J.H.S. Students enjoy going to football games.

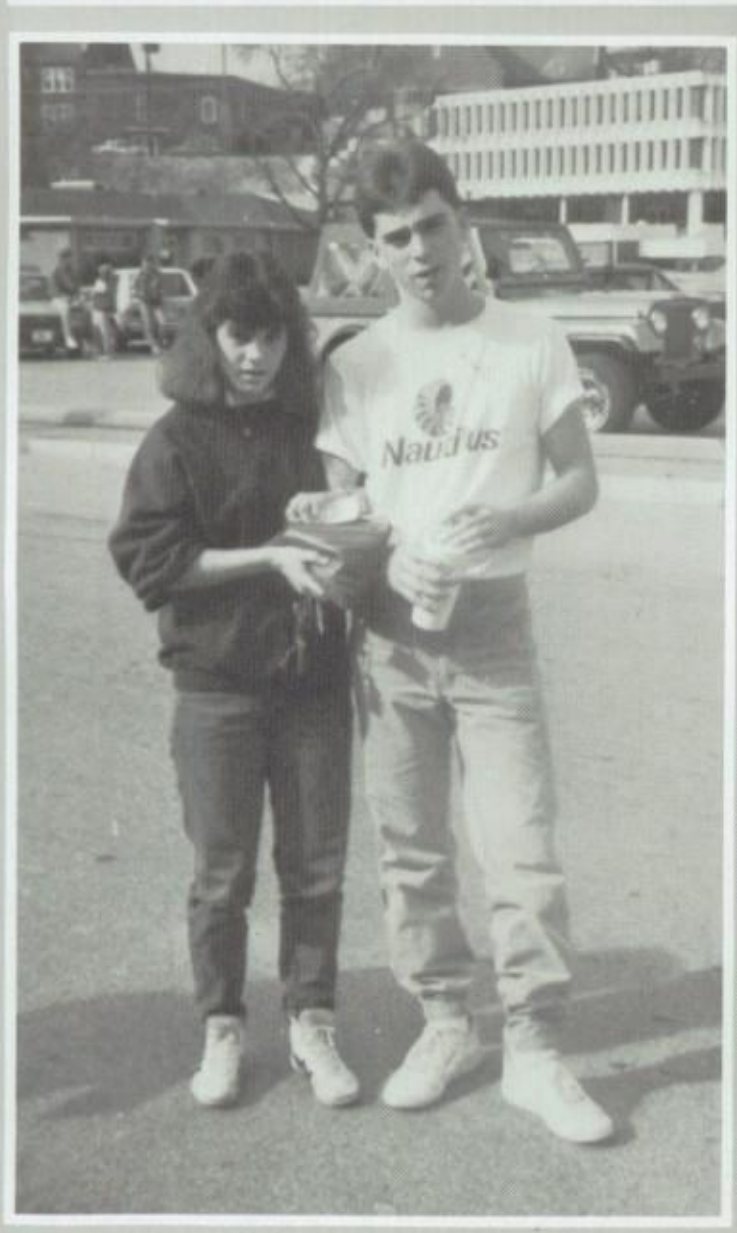
The cheerleaders don't believe in all work and no play.

Leigh Reynolds was having fun until she got the bill.

These three characters are all ready to goof off in Mrs. Lamb's class.

This fellow takes advantage of his few minutes before the bell to rest.

Paul Hey prefers four chairs to a soft bed.



It's Friday, 3:05, Gretchen Schubert and Mike Walker can rest now.

Mrs. Lamb looks as though she needs a break.

. . . And Rest.

A few weeks into school most everybody has worn themselves out with working and having fun. Some people would mess around all weekend and have to cram a good three hours of studying into one hour Sunday night while others, although I don't know who, get their studies out of the way early and relax without having homework hanging over their heads. Now those people that wait until Sunday night usually stay up 'till all hours of the night to get their work done, forcing themselves to catnap during class, but hey, the teachers can't get on to us for it, if they would stop giving us so much homework, we wouldn't be so tired — right?

David Gray relaxes a bit before going into the school.

Joe Washington is ready for a night on the town

Here Mrs. Johnson lets out her frustrations on Chris Nemith.

COLOPHON

The 1987 Ad Annos was prepared by the student staff of Jacksonville High School, Jacksonville Alabama, with the help of Mr. David Ziegler of Jostens Printing and Publishing Company. The yearbook was published in the Jostens plant of Clarksville, Tennessee.

The 150 point board cover is designed using the Craftline Embossed Program. It is quarterbound with sapphire Velvatouch and smoke. The lettering on both lids is blind embossed with an application of gold foil. The spine is blind embossed only. This cover was selected to be reproduced for Jostens Publications in its 1988 edition of the Cover Book. All artwork was drawn by Chris Nemeth.

The book consists of 260 pages and has a press run of 650 copies. There are 28 pages of full color in the book. The staff used headlines of 36 point with hand lettered type on division pages. Eight point type was used for caption copy, while all body copy was set in ten point. All copy is styled in Souvenir type. A block paragraph form is used. A one pica internal margin is used between all elements.

WELCOME BACK TO DAY 32 OF THE ORAL ROBERTS DEATH WATCH! MY PRODUCER JAKE AND I ARE STILL TALKING ABOUT GOD'S EXTRAORDINARY $4.5 MILLION SHAKEDOWN.

JAKE, I THINK WHAT CONCERNS ME MOST IS THE CLAIM THAT GOD IS HOLDING A LIFE HOSTAGE FOR FUND-RAISING PURPOSES, THAT HE IS, IN EFFECT, A COMMON TERRORIST.

AS ONE OBSERVER HAS PUT IT, "NO CAUSE CAN JUSTIFY TERRORISM. IT IS THE CRIME OF COWARDS. TERRORISM IS HEINOUS AND INTOLERABLE!"
WHO SAID THAT?

Cary Grant, 82, was Hollywood's consummate leading man.
